Museum To Show Bonzais

Bonsai—the centuries-old Japanese art of training miniature trees, begins an eight-day exhibition Sunday in the seventh annual Bonsai Exhibit at the California Museum of Science and Industry, Exposition Park. Some 200 trees will be on display, each representing individual efforts by 100 members of the California Bonsai Society, organization sponsoring the exhibit. A wide variety of bonsai styles will be featured at this year's exhibition, including: yose-ue, several trees planted to resemble a forest; ikadabuki, several trees growing from one trunk; and ishitsuki, in which the roots are exposed, clasping the rocks like a claw.

ANOTHER WILL BE the cascade style, in which the upper branches are trained to rest below the root level, representing trees in the natural state growing on steep hillside slopes. A number of trees grown from native California seedlings will be shown, in addition to those originally brought from Japan and other parts of the world. Highlight of the eight-day show will be a daily lecture-demonstration at 2 p.m. each afternoon, on the techniques of bonsai cultivation by a member of the California Bonsai Society. The Museum is open Monday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and on Sunday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. There is no admission charge.

First Unit Of Barrier Completed

Completion of all work on a $1.4 million unit of the West Coast Basin sea barrier project has been announced by Supervisor Burton W. Chace. The barrier involves nearly six miles of pipeline through the cities of El Segundo, Manhattan Beach, and Redondo Beach. Chace said the overall project is badly needed in an area running from Playa del Rey to the Palos Verdes hills because of brine intrusion which has destroyed many fresh water wells in the West Coast Basin. The barrier will supply water to injection wells which will create a mound or barrier against further saline contamination. The present unit, begun under a contract awarded more than a year ago, begins near Aviation and El Segundo boulevards and runs generally south to its termination at Prospect Avenue and Torrance Boulevard in Redondo Beach.
